I Wish That Had Duck

"I wish that I had duck feet. And I can tell you why. You can splash around in duck feet. You don't have to keep them dry." But each time he imagines something new--those duck feet, a prickly pair of deer horns perfect for playing football, a spraying whale spout to keep his classroom cool--he realizes that it's not always all it's cracked up to be.

I Wish That I Had Duck Feet by Dr. Seuss is a story I missed somehow as a child. My son introduced me to the book. He checked it out from the library and read it to me as part of his weekly free reading assignment for school. The book centers on a young boy, probably about my son's age, who wants to change.

If you go by the last line of "I Wish That I Had Duck Feet" then you would be inclined to think that this "I Can Read It All By Myself: Beginner Book" is about building self esteem in small children. But this book, written by Theo. LeSieg (do the last name backwards) and illustrated by B. Tobey, does two other important things as well.

I Wish That I Had Duck Feet book by Dr. Seuss

I wish that I had Duck Feet is a lovely little story about a boy who wishes he had - amongst other things - duck feet! He also considers a whale spout, a long tail, an elephant nose and then he puts them all together to become a "Which What Who." A Which What Woo is a funny word - especially if you try and say it fast!!! ☐☐
